INTRODUCTION

The House Style Guide, originally the Supreme Court and Court of Appeals Procedure and Style Handbook, was introduced by Marlo Bush Krueger during her term as Reporter of Decisions. Ms. Krueger established a convenient source of rules compiled from a variety of authorities, beginning with a collection of citation forms, frequently used rules from the Bluebook, a couple of former Justice George Rose Smith's memos on citing and spelling, and a few, often overlooked, grammar rules.

William B. Jones, Jr., expanded Ms. Krueger's work to include a Style and Usage Guide, an alphabetically arranged appendix on usage intended to address specific questions that supreme court and appeals court staff members have raised with the Reporter's Office. The Supreme Court and Court of Appeals Procedure and Style Handbook and the Style and Usage Guide were merged in 1998 under the single title House Style Guide in an effort to create a more convenient and useful format. In 2009, the House Style Guide was reorganized and updated to provide more extensive guidance on opinion formatting and citation of Arkansas-specific sources, and to incorporate changes to case citation rules occasioned by the implementation of online-only reporting of court decisions.

The overarching goal of the current version of the House Style Guide is to provide guidance on format, citation, and usage conventions that are unique to the supreme court and court of appeals so that the courts' opinions are as uniform and as readable as possible. Generally speaking, the current editions of the Bluebook and the Chicago Manual of Style should be consulted as primary authorities on matters of citation, grammar, and usage, except to the extent that they are in conflict with this House Style Guide, in which case the House Style Guide will govern. Other useful sources for guidance in matters of citation, grammar, and usage include current editions of William Strunk, Jr., and E.B. White's Elements of Style; Bryan A. Garner's A Dictionary of Modern Legal Usage and Black's Law Dictionary; and C. Edward Good's Citing and Typing the Law: A Guide to Legal Citations.

This House Style Guide is intended for internal use by the judiciary and staff of the Arkansas Supreme Court and Court of Appeals in preparing opinions. Practitioners may also consult this House Style Guide, but must adhere to specific requirements of the Arkansas Rules of the Supreme Court and Court of Appeals regarding pleadings, briefs, and other documents submitted to the supreme court and court of appeals.

OPINION FORMAT AND STYLE

1.1 General Opinion Formatting Conventions [DRAFT]

1.1.1 Margins, Justification

All opinions should be created in Microsoft Word using the opinion template appropriate to the issuing court. One-inch margins should be utilized, and all text other than centered headings should be fully justified. Opinion text should be typed in single-spaced, indented paragraphs with double spacing between each individual paragraph.

1.1.2 Typeface

All court opinion headings, text, and footnotes, should be typed in 13-point Garamond typeface.

1.1.3 Opinion Text Font

(a) Court opinion text and citations should only utilize regular Roman font and italics, with italics to be used in accordance with Bluebook Rule 7. Bold font should never be used, and underlining is only acceptable to show the addition of new language in proposed or actual changes to court rules or administrative orders. If an opinion quotes source text that utilizes bold font or underlining, the quote should be reproduced using italics or regular font instead.

(b) Large and small capitals should only be used (1) in headnotes, (2) to identify the justice(s) or judge(s) as provided in Section 1.4 below, and (3) to identify parties speaking in dialogue quoted from a trial or hearing transcript, as in the example below.

Example of proper format for dialogue excerpt from transcript:

ATTORNEY: Were you working that night?
WITNESS: Yep.
ATTORNEY: Did you notice anything unusual?
WITNESS: Nope.

Nonverbal cues from the transcript should be enclosed in parentheses and italicized:

ATTORNEY: You say you didn't notice anything unusual?
WITNESS: Um, well, I . . . (witness overcome by coughing fit)

(c) Citations to authorities that would normally use large and small capitals according to Bluebook rules that apply to law review citations should utilize the applicable font convention provided for in the Bluebook's Bluepages, with the caveat that italics should be used in lieu of underlining:

Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 71 (2006).

Black's Law Dictionary 1339 (8th ed. 2004).

John J. Watkins & Richard J. Peltz, The Arkansas Freedom of Information Act (4th ed. 2004).

1.1.4 Footnotes

When footnotes are utilized in opinions, the footnote numbers should be inserted immediately after any closing punctuation. Footnotes should be sequentially numbered using Arabic numbers. The first line of each footnote should be indented and footnote text should be single-spaced, with double spacing between individual paragraphs contained in a single footnote.

1.1.5 Page Numbers

Page numbers should be used on all pages of all court opinions, and should be Arabic numbers in 13-point Garamond typeface. No hash marks, periods, or other markings should be used.

1.1.6 Section Headings

Court opinions utilizing section headings should follow these font and justification conventions to ensure uniformity. Numbers and letters indicating a heading's sequence should not be italicized and should be separated from the heading text by two spaces. When a word that is normally italicized is used in an italicized heading, that word should appear in regular Roman font.

I. Level One Headings Should Begin with a Roman Numeral and Be Italicized, Centered, and Capitalized According to Bluebook Rule 8(a)

A. Level Two Headings Should Begin with a Capital Letter and Be Centered and Capitalized According to Bluebook Rule 8(a)

1. Level three headings should begin with an Arabic number and be italicized and centered

a. Level four headings should begin with a lowercase letter and be centered

1.2 Case Caption, Docket Number, Opinion Date [DRAFT]

1.2.1 Party Names

(a) Parties should be listed in the case caption as they are identified in the caption on the appellant's/petitioner's [brief covers? notice of appeal?], without any abbreviations. The case caption should be centered and single-spaced. Only the first party on either side, and only that part of the first party's name that would appear in a case citation in accordance with Bluebook Rules 10.2.1 and 10.2.2 should appear in all capital letters. If two cases are consolidated, only the first of the listed cases will have any of their parties listed in all caps:

FIRST NATIONAL BANK of Blytheville, Arkansas, and Peoples
Federal Bank of Brinkley v. Jonathan SWIFT, Alexander Pope, and Benton State Bank of Benton, Arkansas and
John Dryden v. Worthen National Bank

(Cite as First Nat'l Bank v. Swift)

(b) In professional conduct matters where there is only one listed party, "In re" should appear in all caps, along with the last name of the respondent. Do not insert a colon after "In re."

IN RE Molly Darlene MCKAY
Arkansas Bar No. 93040

1.2.2 Opinions Without Party Names

When an opinion does not have party names, as with per curiam opinions issued for rule changes, committee appointments, ceremonial observances, and the like, it should be captioned using "In re" in all caps, without a colon. All other words in the caption should be in all caps, except for articles, conjunctions, and prepositions that are four or fewer letters, which should be lowercase:

IN RE SUPREME COURT COMMITTEE on CIVIL PRACTICE

IN RE RETIREMENT of JOHN J. WATKINS from the COMMITTEE on CIVIL PRACTICE

1.2.3 Docket Number and Opinion Date

The docket number should be centered two lines below the last line of the case caption. Letters designating an opinion as a criminal matter, a court of appeals opinion, or both, should be all caps, with spaces between each unit. The date of the opinion should be followed by “Opinion delivered,” should appear in month-day-year order, and should be centered on the line directly below the docket number:

Opinion delivered May 7, 2009

07-1305
Opinion delivered June 25, 2009

CA CR 08-408
Opinion delivered July 1, 2009

CA 08-1260
Opinion delivered September 2, 2009

1.3 Trial Court, Case Disposition, and Attorney Information [DRAFT]

1.3.1 Trial Court and Case Disposition

Information regarding the trial court, circuit judge, and appellate disposition should be provided beginning four lines below the opinion date on an indented, fully justified line. Make a special effort to ensure that the circuit judge’s name is spelled correctly. Each element should be separated by semicolons. The trial court should be identified by the county name and “Circuit,” without the word “County”; the name of the circuit judge should be italicized. For motions, simply identify the motion—which should be capitalized according to Bluebook Rule 8—and its disposition. Below are examples of the proper form for trial court and disposition information, including motions and other matters:

Appeal from Pulaski Circuit; John Langston, Judge; affirmed.

Appeal from the Arkansas Workers’ Compensation Commission; reversed and remanded.

Appeal from Crawford Circuit Court; J. Michael Fitzhugh, Judge; affirmed; Court of Appeals reversed.

Arkansas Supreme Court’s Response to Certification of Question of Law from the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Arkansas; William R. Wilson, United States District Judge; Certified Question answered.

Motion for Rule on Clerk; granted.

Appeal from White Circuit Court; William Pickens Mills, Judge; Petition for Writ of Prohibition granted.

An Original Action for Disbarment; Order of Disbarment issued.

1.3.2 Attorney Information

The names of all attorneys who have entered appearances in a particular matter should be provided beginning two lines below the trial court and disposition information on an indented, single-spaced line. The name of counsel for the appellant/petitioner should appear first, counsel for the appellee/respondent second, and counsel for any amici curiae or other parties third. Party names should not be given unless there are multiple litigants represented by different attorneys. Attorney names and law firm names should appear as they do on brief covers and should be italicized. Special attention should be given to ensure that all names are spelled correctly. In matters where no response is filed, as often happens with motions for rule on clerk, indicate that fact using “No response.” Below are examples of proper form for law firm and attorney information:

Durrett & Coleman, by: Gerald A. Coleman; and Ford, Glover and Roberts, by: Danny W. Glover, for appellant.

Thomas M. Carpenter, Little Rock City Attorney, for appellant.

William R. Simpson, Jr., Public Defender, by: Clint Miller, Deputy Public Defender, for appellant.

Paul Johnson, for appellants.

Easley and Houseal, P.A., by: B. Michael Easley; and Dady & Garner, P.A., by: John D. Holland, for petitioner.

Appellant, pro se.

Dustin McDaniel, Attorney General, by: Lauren Elizabeth Heil, Assistant Attorney General, for appellee.

Welch and Kitchens, LLC, by: Morgan E. Welch, for amicus curiae Arkansas Trial Lawyers Association.

National Chamber Litigation Center, Inc., by: Robin S. Conrad; Winston & Strawn LLP, by: Gene C. Schaerr, Steffen N. Johnson, Andrew C. Nichols, and Jacob R. Loshin; Williams & Anderson PLLC, by: Jess Askeew III, for amici curiae the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America, the Arkansas State Chamber of Commerce, and the Associated Industries of Arkansas, Inc.

1.4 Authoring Justices and Judges

1.4.1 Beginning of Opinion

The name of the justice or judge authoring the opinion, along with his or her title, should appear at the beginning of the opinion. The Chief Justice of the supreme court should be identified as “Chief Justice,” and the Associate Justices should be labeled individually as “Justice,” without abbreviation and without the use of the word “Associate.” The Chief Judge of the court of appeals should be identified as “Chief Judge,” and other judges should be labeled individually as “Judge.”

1.4.2 End of Opinion

The opinion should close with the disposition of the case, listing any judges or justices who concur, dissent, or do not participate, along with the justices’ or judges’ abbreviated titles. Concurring and dissenting opinions should also identify any judges or justices joining in that opinion. Below are examples of how these should appear; examples are listed in the order in which they should appear in cases with multiple opinions or opinions where one or more justices do not participate.

Affirmed.

Special Justice JOHN C. DOE joins in this opinion.

HANNAH, C.J., concurs.

HANNAH, C.J., and BROWN and IMBER, JJ., concur.

VAUGHT, C.J., and GLADWIN, J., dissent.

BROWN, J., and Special Justice JOHN C. DOE dissent.

GLADWIN, J., joins in this dissent.

IMBER, J., not participating.

GUNTER and WILLS, JJ., not participating.

1.5 Introduction of Abbreviated Names and Acronyms

1.5.1 Form of Abbreviation

A party or other subject that is referenced multiple times in an opinion may be abbreviated for convenience by setting off the abbreviated form in quotation marks and enclosing it in parentheses after the full name of the party or subject:

On May 13, 1998, the Arkansas Department of Human Services (“DHS”) revoked Sandra Huddleston’s child-care license, and Huddleston appealed that decision to the circuit court, which stayed the DHS decision.

Appellants Vimy Ridge Municipal Water Improvement District 139 and The Bank of New York Trust Company (collectively, “Vimy Ridge”) appeal an order of the Pulaski County Circuit Court that granted summary judgment in favor of appellees J.A. Ryles; Rylwell LLC; John Ryles; Guy Maris; Whitwell Inc.; and Mark Wilcox, Land Commissioner (collectively, “Ryles”).

1.5.2 Obvious Acronyms, Avoiding Surplusage

If the abbreviated form is obvious, a parenthetical definition is not necessary, as with such commonly known acronyms such as AARP, FBI, FCC, NAACP, NASA, and NLRB. Avoid using such surplusage as “hereinafter” or “hereinafter referred to as.”

1.6 “Em” Dashes, “En” Dashes, and Hyphens

1.6.1 “Em” Dashes

“Em” dashes (—), which are created in Microsoft Word with two consecutive dashes, are used in headnote headings, and may be used in opinion text to set off words or phrases in sentences, as in the example below. Spaces should not be used to separate em dashes from surrounding text:

Because DHHS is the entity charged with administering the Arkansas Medicaid Program, it—rather than the circuit court—is the sole entity that may determine whether a Medicaid applicant is eligible for Medicaid.

1.6.2 “En” Dashes

“En” dashes (–), which are shorter than em dashes but longer than hyphens, are created in Microsoft Word with the “insert symbol” function. En dashes are used to designate a span of page numbers, years, or similar values, as in the example below. En dashes should also be used to separate “Civ.” or “Crim.” from “Ark. R. App. P.”

See Mayfield v. Ark. Dep't of Human Servs., 88 Ark. App. at 336–41, 198 S.W.3d at 543–46.

Arkansas Rule of Appellate Procedure–Criminal 5(a) or
Ark. R. App. P.–Crim. 5(a)

1.6.3 Hyphens

Hyphens (-) are used in docket numbers, statutes, phrasal adjectives and other hyphenated words:

Ark. Code Ann. § 25-15-201 (Supp. 2007).

breach-of-contract claim

1.7 Quotations

1.7.1 Block Quotations

Bluebook Rule 5.1 directs the format and structure that should be used for block quotations; however, the following additional conventions should be observed: block quotations should only be indented on the left, and footnote numbers that are inserted within or at the end of the quoted material should be bracketed so that it is clear to the reader that the footnote number is not part of the original quoted text. Note that omission of one or more entire paragraphs should be indicated by inserting and indenting four ellipses on a new line; these ellipses should not be centered. Stars or asterisks (* * *) should never be used to indicate omission of material.

1.7.2 Introduction of Quoted Material

When using a colon to introduce quoted material, the colon should be used after the words “as follows,” “the following,” or other similar expression, or after the conclusion of a complete sentence:

The statute at issue reads as follows:

No statute of limitation shall apply to an action brought for the collection of a child support obligation or arrearage against any party who leaves or remains outside the State of Arkansas with the purpose to avoid the payment of child support.

This court has previously recognized three requirements for the enforcement of an exculpatory provision:

An exculpatory clause may be enforced (1) when the party is knowledgeable of the potential liability that is released; (2) when the party is benefiting from the activity which may lead to the potential liability that is released; and (3) when the contract that contains the clause was fairly entered into.

NOT:

The court concluded that:

In the case at bar, appellees and their predecessors used the disputed property as an entrance to their property. There was no other business fronting on the property. Although the public traveled across the property and civic organizations used it from time to time, this usage was permissive, not possessory, and did not destroy the exclusiveness of appellees' use.

BUT:

The court concluded that

[i]n the case at bar, appellees and their predecessors used the disputed property as an entrance to their property. There was no other business fronting on the property. Although the public traveled across the property and civic organizations used it from time to time, this usage was permissive, not possessory, and did not destroy the exclusiveness of appellees' use.

1.7.3 Alterations

(a) Text

Bluebook Rules 5.2 and 5.3 direct the proper approach for indicating alterations in quoted material. Generally, alterations to the text itself (e.g., omission, insertion, or substitution of letters; insertion of words; omission of words, phrases, or sentences) are indicated using brackets or ellipses, as appropriate. Note that ellipses should not be used to indicate omission of material before or after quoted material that is used as a phrase or clause. When the alteration consists of added emphasis or omission of footnotes or citations, this should be indicated in a parenthetical at the end of the citation for the quoted material, as in the example below. If the citation for the quoted material appears in the language introducing the quote (making a citation at the end of the quoted material unnecessary), alteration is indicated in a stand-alone parenthetical at the end of the quoted material, as in the examples below.

If the altered material is contained in a block quotation, the parenthetical should appear on a new line and should be flush with the left margin of the page.

Citation for quoted material appears at the end of quote:

The court there stated that Mr. Thomason “did not refuse employment; he accepted the employment and was later terminated not by his choice but at the option of his employer.” 72 Ark. App. at 11, 32 S.W.3d at 54 (emphasis added).

Citation for quoted material appears in language introducing quote:

At the outset, we note that “caregiver,” as defined in section 5-28-101(3), is one who “has the responsibility for the protection, care, or custody” of an endangered adult. (Emphasis added.)

Citation for quoted material appears in language introducing block quote:

In McCree v. Walker, 81 Ark. App. 281, 284–85, 101 S.W.3d 276, 278 (2003), this court explained:

Baptist churches are congregational churches in form and structure. In congregational churches, the affairs of a particular church are determined by the vote of the majority of the members of that church and not by some other hierarchical form of church government.

(Citations omitted.)

(b) Punctuation

Generally, omission, substitution, or addition of punctuation within quoted material is indicated by the use of brackets. However, the insertion of a period or comma at the end of quoted material that is used as a phrase or clause should not be indicated with brackets:

Source text:

In determining whether there has been a misleading promise of reward we look at the totality of the circumstances. The totality is subdivided into two main components, first, the statement of the officer and second, the vulnerability of the defendant.

Quotation:

To determine “whether there has been a misleading promise of reward,” the court employs a totality-of-the-circumstances test.

NOT:

To determine “whether there has been a misleading promise of reward[,]” the court employs a totality-of-the-circumstances test.

Quotation:

The court has previously stated that “[t]he totality is subdivided into two main components.”

NOT:

The court has previously stated that “[t]he totality is subdivided into two main components[.]”

1.7.4 Silent Corrections and Use of “[sic]”

The use of “[sic]” is often necessary when the quoted matter contains a significant error, such as “Freeburg” for “Fribourgh.” Silent corrections are strongly encouraged when the quoted material contains an obvious grammatical error or citation error—particularly if the quoted material is taken from the record or is contained in an opinion of the Arkansas Supreme Court or Arkansas Court of Appeals.

CITATION OF ARKANSAS-SPECIFIC SOURCES

2.2 Special Citation Forms for Other Court Opinions

2.2.1 Supplemental Opinions

- (a) Published in the Arkansas Reports and Arkansas Appellate Reports

When citing to a supplemental opinion that is published in the Arkansas Reports or Arkansas Appellate Reports, cite to the case as any other, but provide the starting page of the original majority opinion with a page cite to the starting page of the supplemental opinion or to a particular page within that supplemental opinion:

Wilcox v. Safley, 298 Ark. 159, 162-A, 766 S.W.2d 12, 741 (1989) (supplemental opinion on denial of rehearing).

- (b) Published Online

When citing to a supplemental opinion that is published online, cite to the case as any other electronically published opinion, but provide a page cite to the starting page of the supplemental opinion or to a particular page within that supplemental opinion:

White v. Green, 2010 Ark. 171, at 8 (supplemental opinion on denial of rehearing).

2.2.2 Per Curiam Orders Regarding Court Rules, Administrative Orders, Professional Conduct Matters, and Ceremonial Observances

- (a) Abbreviate caption and procedural phrases according Bluebook Rule 10.2.1(b) and T.6; for especially long captions, omit all but the first-listed item.

In Re: Rules of Supreme Court & Court of Appeals, Rule 4-3; Rules of Appellate Procedure—Criminal, Rule 4; & Rules of Criminal Procedure, Rule 24.3

becomes

In re Rules of Supreme Court & Court of Appeals, Rule 4-3

In re Ark. Supreme Court & Court of Appeals Rule 5-2, 2009 Ark. 330 (per curiam).

2.3 Arkansas Constitution

Rule 11 of the Bluebook should be consulted for guidance on citation of provisions of the Arkansas Constitution. When a provision of the Arkansas Constitution is discussed in a textual sentence, the subdivision is not capitalized:

ADG asserts that jurisdiction to issue the writ of certiorari lies in this court because amendment 80 repealed Arkansas Constitution article 7, section 14.

2.4 Arkansas Code

2.4.1 Statutes

Cite to the current version of the Arkansas Code unless an earlier version applies, in which case the applicable version should be cited. If the applicable law has not yet been codified, cite to the session laws. If the statute appears in the applicable supplement, cite only to that supplement. Cite to both the main volume and the supplement if both would have to be consulted to view the full, current version of the act or statutes cited.

Ark. Code Ann. §§ 11-9-101 to -1001 (Repl. 2002 & Supp. 2009).

2.4.2 Use in Textual Sentences

Generally, statutory citations that are used in textual sentences may be either spelled out or abbreviated, as long as the author consistently does one or the other throughout the opinion. Note, however, that when a code section begins a sentence, it should always be spelled out in full:

Arkansas Code Annotated section 16-13-205 (Repl. 1999) provides that circuit courts hold the power to issue writs of certiorari to an “inferior tribunal.”

2.4.3 Multiple Sections and Subsections

(a) When citing consecutive sections of the Arkansas Code within the same chapter, use two section symbols and show inclusion of a span of sections using the word “to” instead of an en dash:

Ark. Code Ann. §§ 11-9-101 to -1001

NOT: Ark. Code Ann. §§ 11-9-101 – 11-9-1001

(b) When citing multiple subsections within a single code section, enclose each subsection in parentheses and use a single section symbol:

Ark. Code Ann. § 16-90-111(a), (b) OR Ark. Code Ann. § 16-90-111(a)–(b)

NOT: Ark. Code Ann. §§ 16-90-111(a), (b)

NOT: Ark. Code Ann. § 16-90-111(a, b)

(c) The use of “et seq.” to cite multiple code sections is strongly discouraged. If used, the abbreviation should not be italicized, and two section symbols should be used:

Ark. Code Ann. §§ 11-9-101 et seq.

2.4.4 Notes

Case notes found in the Arkansas Code generally should not be cited; instead the cases themselves should serve as source material. A.C.R.C. notes, publisher’s notes, and other notes should be cited as in the examples below:

Ark. Code Ann. § 9-27-102 A.C.R.C. notes (Repl. 2008).

Ark. Code Ann. § 9-27-103 publisher’s notes (Repl. 2008).

2.7 Administrative Orders

Administrative orders of the court vary in how their subdivisions are designated—some are organized by sections (Administrative Order No. 1), others by lettered subsections (Administrative Order No. 2), and others by numbered paragraphs (Administrative Order No. 3). In the interest of maintaining uniformity and consistency in citation, specific subdivisions of administrative orders should be enclosed in parentheses and should immediately follow the administrative order number, as in the examples below.

Citation:

Ark. Sup. Ct. Admin. Order No. 2(b)(2).
Ark. Sup. Ct. Admin. Order No. 8(III)(a).

Textual sentence:

Administrative Order No. 10(V)(a) or section (V)(a) of the Arkansas Child Support Guidelines

2.8 Arkansas Model Jury Instructions

Arkansas Model Jury Instructions—Civil were, up until 2005, published in numbered editions. In 2005, the year of publication became the edition number. The Arkansas Model Jury Instructions—Criminal are currently published in only two editions. Citations to model instructions should appear as in the examples below.

AMI Civ. 4th 712.

AMI Civ. 712 (2009).

AMI Crim. 2d 3802.

AMI Crim. 2d 3802 note.

2.9 Bills

S.B. 378, 84th General Assem., Reg. Sess. (Ark. 2003).

H.B. 1134, 83d General Assem., Reg. Sess. (Ark. 2001).

H.R.J. Res. 1001, 85th General Assem., Reg. Sess. (Ark. 2005).

2.10 Regulations

Weil's Code of Arkansas Rules should be cited for all Arkansas regulations appearing therein. In the first example below, "009" is the agency, "00" is the sub-agency, and "001" is the chapter. Individual regulations vary in how their subdivisions are designated—some are organized into individually-numbered rules, as in the first example below; others are divided into numbered sections, as in the second example below; and others into lettered paragraphs, as in the third example below. If a rule or regulation contains no subdivisions, the rule or regulation number itself should simply be cited without a section symbol. A section symbol should be used for any other type of subdivision. The year the regulation became effective may be found in the bottom margin of the cited rule or regulation, and is the year that should be used in the parenthetical following the rule or regulation number.

009-00-001 Ark. Code R. 099.05(T)(A) (Weil 2006).

004-00-002 Ark. Code R. § 1 (Weil 2007).

010-05-001 Ark. Code R. § f (Weil 1994).

2.11 Attorney General Opinions

Op. Ark. Att'y Gen. No. 267 (2005).

Op. Ark. Att'y Gen. No. 104, at 1 (2003).

NOT: Op. Ark. Att'y Gen. No. 05-267.

OTHER HOUSE CITATION AND STYLE CONVENTIONS

3.1 Parallel Citations

Always use parallel citations to the regional reporter for Arkansas state cases, when available; if the regional reporter citation is not available at the time the slip opinion is handed down, a parallel South Western Reporter citation with a blank for the volume number and a blank for the starting page number may be provided. Parallel citations to the South Western Reporter that are not available at the time that editorial changes are made to a slip opinion for publication in final form should be deleted. Note that cases in volumes 1 through 46 of the Arkansas Reports do not have parallel citations in the South Western Reporter. Cases from state appellate courts in all other jurisdictions should be cited to the relevant regional reporter only. Consult T.1 of the Bluebook to determine which regional reporter to cite and how to abbreviate the issuing court's information.

3.2 Use of “Id.” and “Supra”

3.2.1 *Id.

“Id.” is the short form used to refer to the immediately preceding authority. It may only be used when the preceding citation cites to only one source. “Id.” should not be used if the source is cited or referenced in the text preceding the citation.

3.2.2 *Supra

The use of “supra” for case citations is discouraged, and should only be used when referring generally to a previously cited case or its holding. When employing “supra” for a case citation, the citation should use only one party's name (or a readily identifiable shorter version of one party's name) if the reference is unambiguous. Note that the comma separating the case name and “supra” should not be italicized.

3.3 Phrasal Adjectives

3.3.1 A phrasal adjective is a phrase that functions as a unit to modify a noun. Hyphenate phrasal adjectives (also called compound adjectives or compound modifiers), as in the following examples:

- attorney-client privilege
- child-support payments
- class-action suit
- common-law rule
- contemporaneous-objection rule

first-degree murder
good-faith exception
gross-receipts tax
implied-consent law
ineffective-assistance claim lump-sum award
rape-shield statute
subject-matter jurisdiction
summary-judgment motion
third-party beneficiary
three-year contract
totality-of-the-circumstances test
victim-impact testimony
wage-loss factor
waiver-of-rights form

3.3.2 A phrasal adjective should not be hyphenated when it follows the noun that it modifies or if it is a two-word phrasal adjective that begins with an adverb ending in “-ly”:

murder in the first degree law is well settled
closely held corporation

3.3.3 Do not hyphenate capitalized phrasal adjectives such as “Due Process Clause” or foreign-language compound modifiers such as “voir dire examination.”

3.4. Other Compound Terms

Listed below are examples of compound terms commonly used in court opinions. The Chicago Manual of Style should be consulted for guidance on when compound terms other than those listed below should be hyphenated, open, or closed.

codefendant
coworker
cross-appeal
cross-examination
direct appeal
email
nonprofit nonresident nonsuit online
postconviction
posthearing

posttrial
postelection
preelection
prehearing
pretrial
reexamine
rulemaking

3.5 Commas

3.5.1 Serial Comma

When a conjunction joins the last two elements in a series, a comma should be inserted before the conjunction:

She sat up in bed, put on her glasses, and reached for the telephone.

3.5.2 Commas with Corporate Designations, "Jr.," etc.

Commas are required both before and after such corporate designations as "LLC" and "Inc." if used by the corporation, or around "Jr." or "Sr." if used by that person; otherwise, no comma is required:

Jack Mason, Jr., agreed to serve another term.
Bill Craft Sr. was the shorter of the two.
Smith & Harvey, PLC, offered Amber a paralegal position.
Partridge Productions Inc. retained Dr. Cate as its expert witness.

3.5.3 Commas and Dates

Use commas to set off dates within a sentence unless the date is used as an adjective:

On May 7, 2007, appellant filed a motion for reconsideration in the trial court, and on June 6, 2007, he filed a notice of appeal as to the denial of the motion for reconsideration.

Although the February 4, 2003 order dismissed the earlier case "with prejudice," we hold that it did not operate as a bar to the present case.

3.6 Possessives

3.6.1 Singular Possessives

Form singular possessives by adding an apostrophe and an “s” to the singular form of the noun, even if the word ends with the letter “s”:

The appellant’s argument
Arkansas’s best kept secret
Jones’s brief

Singular names that are plural in form should also use an apostrophe and an “s”:

American Airlines’s profits
The court of appeals’s opinion

3.6.2 Plural Possessives

Form plural possessives by adding an apostrophe to plural nouns ending in “s” and an apostrophe and “s” to plural nouns not ending in “s”:

Workers’ compensation
Women’s rights
The Joneses’ farm

3.7 Doubling of Consonants in Verbs Ending in “-ing” and “-ed”

Generally, when adding “-ing” or “-ed” to the end of a word, a single consonant letter at the end of the word should be doubled when the preceding vowel is spelled with a single letter and is stressed; if the preceding vowel is not stressed, the ending consonant should not be doubled:

bar	barring	barred
benefit	benefiting	benefited
focus	focusing	focused
occur	occurring	occurred
parallel	paralleling	paralleled
travel	traveling	traveled

BUT:

format	formatting	formatted
--------	------------	-----------

3.8 Miscellaneous House Conventions

3.8.1 Miranda

When referring to the Miranda v. Arizona decision or Miranda rights, “Miranda” should be capitalized and italicized; when using “Miranda” as a verb, the word “Mirandize” should be capitalized but not italicized.

3.8.2 Nolle Prosequi

When using the Latin phrase “nolle prosequi” as a verb, the phrase should appear in regular Roman font and should be spelled “nolle pros,” “nolle prossing,” or, “nolle prossed,” as appropriate.
